Central Subway North Beach Extension Study

Background

- In 2016, the Transportation Authority allocated $540,000 in Prop K sales tax funds for the SFMTA's T-Third Phase 3 Feasibility Study to study the feasibility of light rail transit service extension from Chinatown to North Beach and the Fisherman's Wharf area
- Project team determined a more focused study on a North Beach-only extension would be more appropriate:
  - Existing tunnel infrastructure for a North Beach extension is already in place
  - More cost effective
  - SFMTA needs to better understand the benefits/ tradeoffs of building a station in North Beach near the current tunnel alignment

Scope

SFMTA Scope:

- Study the benefits, tradeoffs, and considerations of pursuing a North Beach-only extension versus a longer extension for the Central Subway
- Engineering and high-level design to develop rough cost estimate for a North-Beach only subway extension
- Comparative analysis of North-Beach only extension vs. longer extension

SFCTA Scope:

- Prepare preliminary ridership forecasts
- SFCTA staff input into the Study's tasks related to forecasting and planning
